WORSHIPS IN NATURE

Congregation Gathers About Arboreal Nave.

INSPIRING SERVICES ARE HELD

Thousands Pray with Dr. Pierce, Sing with Vested Choir, and Listen to Dr. McKim's Panegyric of America on Site Where Cathedral Will Rise—Processional in the Woods.

On the spot where a gigantic cathedral with its lofty spires and commanding arches will soon be raised, solemn, patriotic exercises were held yesterday afternoon by the worshippers of St. Alban's.

A glowing panegyric of America and the Episcopal Church was delivered by Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim. Reverence and sanctity pervaded the atmosphere, through every blade in the thousand grasses, through the million leaves, veined and edge-cut, on the bushes and trees, through the song-note and marked feather of the birds, through the insect's hum and the color of the butterfly, through the soft warm air and the blue clouds, God was praised. Gathered in respectful silence about the simple oak pulpit and the towering peace cross, a thousand people prayed with Rev. Dr. U. G. B. Pierce, sang with the vested choir, and listened attentively to Dr. McKim.

A Sermon in the Woods.

It was a sermon in the woods, with no church but Nature's, no effects and decorations but natural ones. The clearing in which the pulpit stood was bathed in sunshine, the cheering, comfortable sunshine of the late afternoon. In the background hundreds of broad-headed, wide-branched oaks, which have witnessed the stately march of religion, of civilization, of soldiers, of their garbled armies over a thick carpet of greenwood. In some places beeches, maples, locusts, and elms intermingled with their more numerous brothers and helped to intercept the sunshine which would not be gained in its effort to be present at the services.

From behind the bushes of the greenwood and from under the greenwood bough one would not have been surprised to see the red leggings and green jerkins of Robin Hood and his merry men peeping between the leaves, with leather caps in hand and reverential mien. Then, too, there was the honeysuckle in the hedge and the daisy fields off to the southward.

Solemn Processional.

Into this nave of trees the solemn procession of vested participants marched. From the little red frame chapel of St. Alban's the pastor, Rev. Dr. Bratenahl, led his colleagues, the choir, and the band. Garbed in white, the chanting chorists took their seats beneath the pulpit, hymnbooks in hand, while the musicians were placed behind them and mingled their soft instruments with the young voices of the singers.

The sun flashed on the brass horn and the cornet, and the congregation had ample time to enjoy the beauty of this idyllic scene before the notes of the processional died away.

By this time the cross-bearer had placed his symbolic burden before the pulpit, leaving it in full view of the audience. After a moment's silence the services were begun—the evensong—edifying, simple, and impressive.

Frenzied Memorial Sermon.

Assisted by a section of the Marine Band the vested choir sang several of the most commemorative hymns, ending with "America," in which the congregation assisted. Dr. McKim preached a memorial sermon in anticipation of July 4. Beginning with an appropriate commentary on the Day of Independence, he spoke of the author of the Declaration, saying that he was proud, as every American should be proud, to name him among the members of the Episcopal Church. Continuing in this vein, he mentioned that of the fifty-four signers of the Declaration thirty-two were Episcopalians, and that Madison, Monroe, and Marshall, among others, were members of the same creed.

He spoke of the United States as the country which God had chosen to shower His choicest blessings upon, and said that the country had now reached a stage of wonderful development in every line. He predicted that the Anglican church would continue to exert a powerful influence on the welfare and betterment of the country, and ended by asking God's blessing on the rulers and inhabitants of the republic.

SINGERS AT VOIGT'S FARM.

Annual Outing of Arion Society Held Near Tennytown.

All roads led to William Voigt's farm, near Tennytown, for the members of the Arion Singing Society yesterday, who, with their wives, children, sweethearts, and friends, had their annual outing and picnic at the place mentioned. There were the customary speeches by members of the society and by delegates from the Saengerbund, Germania, and the United Singers. Entertainments and amusements of all kinds had been provided for the younger element, and there was no let-up to the frolic until the sun went down. Chorus and solo songs, assisted by proper refreshments, contributed to make the occasion a most enjoyable one. F. A. Rocker is president of the society, and under his leadership the Arion has kept in the front rank of singing societies of this country.

PATRIOTISM IN CHURCH.

Independence Day Sermon Preached by Rev. C. H. Richardson.

Services in commemoration of the national Independence Day were held at the Ryland Methodist Episcopal Church last night before a large congregation. The interior of the edifice was decorated in all parts with giant flags and pennants, which formed an admirable setting for Miss Margaret Larcombe's reading, "The American Flag."

Rev. C. Herbert Richardson, pastor of the church, delivered a patriotic sermon on the "Declaration of Independence," a subject with which he is familiar and which he has studied for some time. At the conclusion of the services the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung standing, the congregation joining in the last stanza, while W. C. Palmer was the soloist. The opening hymn was "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," while Kipling's "Recessional" and Luther's "A Mighty Fortress" were the other selections rendered.

Unterstrubungsbund Names Officers.

At the semi-annual meeting of the German Unterstrubungsbund District No. 40, held last week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: F. A. Rocker, president; C. L. Ruppert, vice president; Wilhelm Hannemann, secretary; Fritz Reckeweg, treasurer; Theodore Abner, conductor, and Mrs. Katie Hannemann, overseer.

CAMP'S WORK LAUDED

Public Urged to Aid Good Will by Dr. Van Schaick.

OPENS FOR SUMMER TO-DAY

Achievements of the Outings Committee Are Reviewed by Preacher, Attention Called to the Need for More Funds—The Newspapers Are Thanked for Their Assistance.

"I ask all the members of this parish: I ask all citizens of Washington, irrespective of creed, to support this work by volunteer personal service and by financial contributions. I am in a position to know that the money is wisely and effectively spent, that the children in greatest need receive the greatest help, and that enough pure joy is stored up on ronder green hill to last the boys and girls a year."

With this eloquent appeal on behalf of Camp Good Will, Rev. John Van Schaick, Jr., concluded his sermon on "Work and Rest," a pre-vacation observation, at the Church of Our Father, Universalist, yesterday morning.

Speaking of the summer outing work in this city, Dr. Van Schaick said in part: "During the past four years a movement has grown up in Washington to give summer outings to people in need. Thousands of the well-to-do go away to the mountains or the seashore, but thousands have to stay. Some live in little tenements, with crowded rooms, with not much chance for a breath of air. Four years ago it was proposed to give at least a few of these suffering thousands the outing they so sorely needed, and the suggestion met with instant response.

PLAN OUTING TO BEACH.

Navy Yard Employees to Remember Unfortunates in City.

Preparations have now been made for the annual free outing to Chesapeake Beach, given each year by the employees of the navy yard to the children and mothers of the city who are seldom if ever favored with trips to the beach.

This committee of men gets to work early in the morning on the day of the picnic, putting up the box lunches, making lemonade, and preparing in various ways to make the day thoroughly enjoyable to the little people. In addition to the fun incident to a trip to Chesapeake Beach, the navy yard men will provide for each person a box lunch, a tin dipper, three glasses of lemonade, a dish of ice cream, a bag of peanuts, two amusements, competitive games with prizes, and arrangements for bathing.

Children and mothers will be selected by the agents of the Associated Charities, the general care and detailed work of the excursion will be made under the direction of the summer outing committee, and it is expected that nothing will be left undone to make this outing a complete success.

The following are the committee in charge of arrangements for the navy yard men: A. J. Berres, president; George Griffith, vice president; J. Walter Edelin, secretary; Messrs. Tadd, Escaville, Price, Wright, Squig, and others.

Edgar, Thompson, McAllister, Johnson, Bowen, Disney, and Barber.

PLAN CONFERENCE OF UNION.

Army and Navy Organization Arranges for Meeting Here.

Delegates from the Army and Navy Union, representing Barry, Porter and Henry, and Roosevelt regiments, held a business session yesterday afternoon on the lawn of the Juvenile Court. Many important questions which will come up before the biennial gathering were discussed. This conference will be held here on July 17, and will continue for three days. Col. Robert Alton, chairman of the delegation, presided.

A resolution was passed favoring the giving of two months' extra pay to sick and disabled soldiers of the Spanish-American war who were discharged. The delegates pledged themselves to further the candidacy of Gen. A. S. Burt, U. S. A., for national commander.

DISTRICT'S OLDEST TO MEET.

Association Will Be Guests of Mr. Noyes at Alton Farm.

The Association of the Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia will celebrate Independence Day at Alton Farm, as the guests of Crosby S. Noyes, vice president of the society, and owner of the country seat where the gathering will be held. Extensive arrangements have been completed for the celebration, and it is expected that the septuagenarians and octogenarians of the association will renew their youth beneath the beautiful shade trees and on the green lawns of Alton Farm.

The notice of the secretary states that the members will assemble in the parlors of the Riggs Hotel at 10 o'clock on the morning of July 4, and will be conveyed by special cars to the farm. Each guest, including the members of the society and their families, is expected to wear the badge of the society, or the visitor's badge, which will be furnished by the committee of arrangements at the Riggs Hotel, or at the gate of the farm. Without such means of identification no one can gain admission to the grounds.

Following is the programme of exercises prepared for the day:

Business meeting, 11 a. m. to 12 m.

Recited, "America".....Audience

Speech by Crosby S. Noyes.....Audience

REV. F. SEWALL TO TRAVEL.

Church of the New Jerusalem Closes for the Summer.

The Church of the New Jerusalem held its closing service for the present season yesterday morning. The pastor, Rev. Frank Sewall, will spend the summer in Europe, visiting, among other places, the home of Swedenborg.

The subject of the sermon was the parable of the trees choosing a king (Judges, ix.3) brought down to the needs of every day, in public and private life. The musical part of the service was noteworthy, one feature being a fine rendering of Mendelssohn's "He Is Watching Over Israel," and another a tenor solo. This was an arrangement of the hymn "Abide With Me," composed by Mr. Ernest Szemielny, of Washington.

NOT MISS OTT'S ASSAILANT.

Suspect Released After Inspection by Ridgely, W. Va., Woman.

Because he is not the man wanted by Sheriff Nethen, of Keyser, W. Va., for an attack on Nellie Ott, living in Ridgely, W. Va., Charles Sallor was released by the local police yesterday.

Sallor answered the description of the assailant, and when it was found that he had recently arrived in this city from Cumberland, Md., a few miles from where the deed occurred, the original charge of vagrancy, on which he was arrested, was erased from the books at the Sixth precinct station and that of being a fugitive from justice entered in its place.

Miss Ott came to Washington early yesterday morning, in company with Sheriff Nethen, to identify the prisoner, but upon looking at the man said that he was not her assailant.

Miss Ott left for Cumberland on the next train.

"ARMY IS ALL RIGHT"—TAFT

Nothing Wrong with Organization, in Secretary's Opinion.

Interprets Gen. Bell's Remarks as Referring to Desire for Increase in the Military Force.

"There is nothing wrong in the army so far as the officials of the War Department are aware," said the Secretary of War yesterday, in answer to a request for an expression of opinion concerning the remarks of Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, in addressing the army officers at Leavenworth, Kans. Gen. Bell is quoted as having said, "There is something wrong in the army. It is known in Washington, and an effort will be made to correct it."
